Carrier licence surrender form

Information for applicants

A carrier licence may be surrendered by providing written notice to the Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA).

Circumstances in which it may be appropriate to surrender a carrier licence include if the carrier ceases to own network units, ceases supplying carriage services to the public, is in liquidation or is under administration.

Print clearly. An illegible, unclear or incomplete form may cause processing delays.

Section 2: Surrender declaration

Pursuant to section 71 of the Telecommunications Act 1997, I surrender the carrier licence held by the abovementioned carrier and declare that:

1. I am authorised to sign this form on behalf of the carrier and to surrender the licence in accordance with section 71 of the Telecommunications Act 1997.

2. I acknowledge that this does not constitute a surrender of a licence issued in accordance with the Radiocommunications Act 1992.

3. The information provided in this form and in any enclosures is true and correct in every detail.

4. I am aware that it is an offence under section 137.1 of the Criminal Code (Cth) to knowingly give false or misleading information to a Commonwealth entity.

The information is requested on this form to enable the ACMA to perform a number of its telecommunications functions under section 8 of the Australian Communications and Media Authority Act 2005, in particular those under paragraphs 8(1)(a), (c), (f) and (j). The ACMA may also make information available to third parties, including other government agencies and departments in accordance with Part 7A of the Australian Communications and Media Authority Act 2005 and where required or authorised by law.
