

Facebook has changed, why is my feed over-run with News and click bait, that's all there is these days, what was once a great way to stay connected with the world especially with a chronic illness is now drowning in sensationalist headlines ... I can't even stay in touch with old friends or connect with new people. I am literally going to have to return to the real world or take up a hobby lol I can't access all the wonderful uplifting sources I'd once connected with that I share and to find any means scrolling though all of the stuff being fed to me by media and Facebook-company. I fear Facebook is dead ... 2008 - 2020 we had a good run ...
