

[REDACTED]

From: Jeff Martin <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Monday, 20 January 2020 7:57 AM
To: Have your say
Subject: Impartial news survey - my opinion

Have your say

I am very pleased to hear you are taking action on this matter

I rarely listen to the commercial news channels however I am now becoming very disillusioned with the ABC and I find myself turning to SBS or the 'BBC news for Australia' to gather information. The ABC news is a shocker.

I would love to know how many times ABC blamed the Prime Minister for the global warming crisis in the last few weeks. It has been on high rotation, every news break. I would like the ABC to explain how a further reduction in CO2 emissions from Australia will reverse global warming. Produce the science and the accounting to back up these inane statements.

I was left wondering is there an election around the corner?

In the evening when they ask listeners to call, and someone calls and disagrees, and uses science and facts to argue the point, the caller is dismissed and mocked.

When the Prime Minister announced recently that Australia is ahead of its targets for 2020, the commentators say that is due to the work of Labour, not Liberal governments. I didn't think that the commitment to meet the reduction targets was divided into Liberal, Labour, Greens and Independent policies - it is just one Australia.

I would be pleased to watch ABC TV and listen to ABC Radio when they ditch the partisan politics.

Wouldn't it be productive of the ABC if they led a campaign to reduce CO2 emissions based on consumption, that's where the real problem lies.

But it won't be good for ratings to tell Aussie consumers our emissions based on consumption are 6 or 7 times the limit set by the EU.

Then again, maybe the ABC would find away to blame Scott Morrison

Fix them or close them down I say

Regards Jeff