

To ACMA,

My Name is Jason Jones, I am third Generation Amateur Radio Operator(Grandfather was VK3NQS/VK3DQS, Dad had VK3NQS and now VK3DQS and my Call has VK3FNQS and Now VK3NQS)been in the family for 44 years.

During my Lifetime of 36 years, I have seen the UHF CB band change from apparatus License to Class and we have seen the rapid deterioration and abuse of Radio used by Commercial companies.

In this situation, I am 100% Dead Against the Class License on the Amateur Bands(Option C).

I am in Full Support of the Option A as I do think there are still issues where the ACMA need to protect the Amateur radio bands and Amateur not doing the right thing and Status Quo however I do think they need to Follow the RSGB Foundation/Standard/Full and open up the bands and power to the equivalent of RSGB.

I am in partial support of Option B as long as the ACMA still support the regulation and protection of the Amateur Bands and the Treatment of Amateur Not breaching the Rules. I do think this

Thanks

Jason Jones
