Subject: CM: Norfolk Island Variation Remote North Eastern Zone Commercial Radio Variation

Hi Planning Officer

8SAT, as described in the Norfolk Island variation consultation paper, is the commercial licensee for the Remote Commercial Central Zone and has a number of planned services in New South Wales, including Lord Howe Island, the closest adjacent licensee.

As previously submitted to ACMA, we are not opposed to the RCNEZ having Norfolk Island added to their license area given the priority for 8SAT to provide radio services to mainland New South Wales communities who currently have spectrum allocated for a commercial radio service, or are communities not included in a commercial radio license to which ACMA is aware of our proposal.

It was our understanding that this current variation in 2022 Quarter 4 would include planning for 8SAT transmitter sites, including unlicensed and unserved regions. ACMA has since advised consultation on 8SAT requested projects would occur in quarter 1 of 2023.

We eagerly await consultation on these projects.

Kind Regards

Wayne Phillips
