To who it may concern,

Upon reading the draft framework I would like to seek clarification before I consider any actual response.

I note in the draft a table that sets out the exemptions current holders of a domestic qualification will receive from the new ACMA certification, but it is unclear if current or old qualification holders will be permitted to continue under their existing level, or will need to sit the non-exempted portion of the new qualification.

For example, currently holders of AOLCP are classified as Advanced, but under this draft it indicated AOLCP are only exempt from theory and regulations. Does this mean an AOLCP holder will need to sit the practical to continue as Advanced, or only if they want the new certificate?

Some clarification would be sincerely appreciated.

Kind Regards,
