Hi [REDACTED]

Thank you, and to you as well.

No this doesn't fall within my area of investigation, our sister agency the office of the safety commissioner regulates internet based harms and you could consider reporting it to them, if you believe it falls within their remit. You can read more about complaints they can assist with here.

<https://www.esafety.gov.au/report/what-you-can-report-to-esafety>.

If [REDACTED] it may also be a criminal act.

Kind regards,

Hi [REDACTED]

Your query has been referred to the monitoring and compliance section for response.

The conduct you have described may contravene Section 42 of the Telecommunications Act. Note that contravention of Section 42 can result in significant fines.

To consider the matter further could you please provide the evidence you have described and any contact details available for the resident.

You can send your reply directly to the monitoring and compliance section at compliance.operations@acma.gov.au
