Subject: Free TV Australia "Gambling advertising on TV"

[CAUTION - EXTERNAL]

From: [REDACTED]
Subject: Gambling advertising on TV

Message Body:

Overwhelmingly, research and lived experience shows that gambling increases domestic and family violence risk, as well as risk of sociability and depression.

Advertising of gambling on TV exposes young people including children to gambling, normalising this from a young age. Children are highly motivated to watch sports on TV, during which broadcast much of gambling advertising occurs. Australia has one of the highest gambling rates per capita, largely due to this normalisation and prevalence of options.

Like cigarette and alcohol advertising on TV, gambling advertising should be completely banned due to the risks it poses to mental and physical health, including to young people and children.
