Hi Michael,

Just following up from your call earlier.

For V-line, there are elements of their signalling system that are carried over Telstra's mobile network. For Yarra Trams, there are devices in the field that track the location of tram.

For both V-Line and Yarra Trams, there are "cab radios" (back-to-base communication) that are carried over Telstra's mobile network.

As at 1pm today, Yarra Trams was fully restored, and as of 2pm today, V-Line was fully restored.

Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Regards, [REDACTED]
